Watry Design Announces Expansion of Leadership Team

Innovative Design Firm Opens New Office and Adds New Services

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. – June 2, 2008 – Watry Design, Inc., the firm that is redefining parking, today announced a new location, new services and an addition to their leadership team. In support of the firm’s expansion plan, Janis Rhodes has joined the firm as a principal and the Director of Parking Operations and Management. Rhodes will lead the firm’s new office which is located in Orange County, California.

When asked what precipitated the expansion, Watry Design’s CEO John Purinton responded “We had not only been looking for the right person to lead our Southern California office, but also for the right expert to lead our parking operations & management services group. Janis’ depth of experience in parking and roots in the Southern California community made her a great candidate for both roles. Her commitment to understanding a client’s parking problems and developing solutions specifically tailored to their needs sealed the deal!”

“I have long admired Watry Design’s client-focused philosophy, as well as the collaborative methodology the firm’s architects, engineers, and parking planners employ to create parking solutions,” said Rhodes. “However, I knew that I had found a new home when I visited their Redwood City office and immediately felt the passion and enthusiasm the whole team has for parking.”
